LEGAL INFORMATION

This website and the domain name www.stpaulsnicosia.com is owned and operated by the Cathedral Church of St Paul, Nicosia, Cyprus, which is part of the Diocese of Cyprus and the Gulf (the Diocese).

Ownership

This site, including any and all trade-marks, logos, design, text and graphics, is owned by and remains the property of the Cathedral. We may include third party materials from time to time, which remain the property of their respective owners. Nothing in these terms of use shall be construed as conferring any licence or right to use any trade mark, copyright or other right of the Cathedral or any third party. Ownership extends to all code excluding that which is available under existing open license agreements.

Use of materials

Where we have indicated that you may download material from this site, you may only download and use them as indicated, or to raise awareness about the Cathedral or the Diocese. You may not use any element of this site for personal gain or commercial purposes, neither may you copy, transmit, store or disseminate any element of this site, unless we have clearly indicated.

Responsibility for use

To the extent permitted at law, neither the Cathedral nor the Diocese accept responsibility or liability for any loss or damage that may occur in connection with this site, including any interruption or delays. The Cathedral and the Diocese do not make any representations nor give any warranties concerning this site, and does not warrant that its contents are virus free. To the extent permitted at law, we do not accept responsibility or liability for infection by virus or other contamination resulting from your use of this site.

Unlawful use

You may only use this site for lawful purposes and you may not inhibit the use of this site by any third party.

You agree to abide by all applicable laws, regulations and codes of conduct and to be solely responsible for all things arising from your use of this site.

You may not submit, publish, post, distribute or transmit any defamatory, offensive, infringing, obscene, indecent or other unlawful or objectionable material or information.

Your Privacy

This website provides extensive links to other independent sites. This privacy policy applies only to direct accesses to www.stpaulsnicosia.com, the website of the Cathedral Church of St Paul, Nicosia, Cyprus.

Data collected

As with the vast majority of websites, we automatically log certain information about every request made of it (see below for more details). This information is used for system administration, for bug tracking, and for producing usage statistics. The logged information will be kept but reviewed periodically.

Data may on occasion be passed to the administrators of other systems to enable investigation of problems accessing this site. Otherwise the logged information is not passed to any third party except if required by law. Summary statistics are extracted from this data and some of these may be made publicly available, but those that are, do not include information from which individuals could be identified.

Where forms are provided on this site, the pages containing these forms include information on how data submitted on them will be processed and used.

Cookies

This site uses “cookies” to remember certain data that has been input by the user. You can disable cookies on your web browser.

Logged data

The following data is logged for each request:

- The name or network address of the computer making the request. In some circumstances it may be possible to infer from this the identity of the person making the request. Note that the data recorded may be that of a web proxy rather than that of the originating client.
- The date and time of connection.
- The HTTP request, which contains the identification of the document requested.
- The status code of the request.
- The number of data bytes sent in response.
- The contents of the HTTP Referrer header.
- The content of the HTTP User-Agent header.
- Logging of additional data may be enabled temporarily for specific purposes.

Images in this website

The Cathedral has made its best efforts to ensure that appropriate permissions and, where appropriate, waivers of copyright have been given for all images used in this website. Alternatively images are the property of either the Cathedral or the Diocese.

Furthermore, the use of images of individuals, groups, congregations and events in this website is governed by the Diocesan Policy on Vulnerable People.

Should you have any complaints regarding the imagery used in the website, or wish for any image to be removed because it contains an unauthorized image of yourself, please contact

Governing law

The Cathedral is located in the Republic of Cyprus and these terms shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the Republic of Cyprus and you agree to submit to the exclusive jurisdiction of the appropriate courts.

Revisions of these terms of use

The Cathedral reserves the right to change these terms of use at any time. You will be bound by any such revisions and should therefore visit this page from time to time to review the terms of use.
